Bearded dragon selection

If you're about to get a Bearded Dragon it's important to make sure you get one that looks healthy, not skinny, it doesn't have ribs showing, preferably stick around and watch them feed the lizards, get one that's quite active, comes out and feeds readily that would be really important. Like any pet you'd want to get a vigorous and healthy looking animal. So, yeah that's really what I'd recommend, just get one that's a good feeder because the ones that feed readily are always the ones that are easy to keep and have no health problems in the long run.
