

Poetry

I love a sunburnt country,
Nature at its best
With greens and golds and browns and blues
From the East to the West
Fire can be our friend
To control undergrowth and weeds
But when out of control, its path of destruction
Makes our hearts bleed